

Teri Buhl

Teri Buhl is a Green Building Science Consultant in the Santa Fe, New Mexico Area, She is currently first Vice President of the Santa Fe Area Home Builders Association and a member of the Green Building Council. Teri has a mechanical engineering degree and specializes in advanced construction techniques, HERS ratings, and solving complex pressure issues in today's tighter building envelopes. Her other interests include water conservation and mentoring students in the vocational and construction trades.